4. The Senior Soviet Naval Adviser, Captain KAPANZU (phonetic), has ten officers and 19 men at Wonsan conducting six-month courses in navigation practice and engineering. Relations with North Korean personnel are good. The North Korean naval academy started in 1947. Naval training began in August 1949 when the North Korean navy was first organized afloat. No Soviets have been seen aboard ships since 25 June 1950.
5. There is one political officer on each ship larger than a MTB, equal in rank to the ship's captain. The political officer wears blue, rather than black, shoulder boards. The usual Communist pattern of classes and lectures is followed aboard ship.
